His insight into the project management world suggests that he has done his research! His high-energy and high-fun style was perfect for our attendees to set the tone for the rest of the conference."

WOW! We expected you to kick off our symposium with a bang but this might have been the best program our chapter has ever experienced. Not only did you present a thought-provoking, well-researched and well-prepared presentation but, you added the twist of an interactive exercise in which everyone was engaged. Ours is a group who thinks they have heard it all and I have received nothing but positive comments.

In an agile environment in which Project Managers and Business Analysts exist, it is easy to HEAR great ideas, but seldom do we implement them. Jeff Tobe gives his audience real tools—even an exercise they can use to engage their teams/stakeholders—that attendees can use as soon as they get back to work. It is a mistake NOT to bring him to your chapter's PDD/Symposium or Congress!
